Part I: Multiple Choice (0.15 each = 3.0)

Read the text below and then choose the correct alternative, as required.

Kiruna Icehotel (Jukkasjärvi) - Sweden

The entire hotel is made out of snow and ice blocks from the Torne River, even the glasses in the bar are made of ice. Each spring, around March, Icehotel harvests tons of ice from the frozen Torne River and stores it in a nearby production hall with room for over 9,100 tons of ice and 27,200 tons of snow. The ice is used for creating Icebar designs and ice glasses, which are used for ice sculpting classes, events and product launches all over the world while the snow is used for building a strong structure for the building. About 1,000 short tons (900 t) of what is left is used in the construction of the next Icehotel.

When completed, the hotel features a bar, church, main hall, reception area, plus about 100 rooms for guests. The room rate starts at $1,500. The hotel hosts also an ice restaurant. The furniture is sculpted blocks of ice in the form of chairs and beds. The thick walls, floor and ceiling are made of ice. Even the beds, the fittings and decoration are carved from ice. No two rooms are the same; the rooms are unique works of art. At the Icehotel the beds are bedded with reindeer furs and people are given special equipment to use while sleeping in the hotel. The guests sleep in polar-tested sleeping bags.

There is no heating and the bedroom temperatures are constantly around -5C. There's no plumbing at the hotel, but there's a sauna that is run on the premises of the Icehotel with hot tub outdoors.

The ice suites do not have any bathroom facilities but bathrooms for guests are found in a warm building close by. There is also warm accommodation available next to the hotel. The Icehotel in Jukkasjärvi is known to be the biggest hotel of ice and snow in the world, spanning over some 6,000 square meters. Each suite is unique and the architecture of the hotel is changed each year, as it is rebuilt from scratch. Each year, artists submit their ideas for suites, and a jury selects about 50 artists to create the church, Absolut Icebar, reception, main hall and suites. When spring comes, everything melts away and returns to the Torne River. The Icehotel only exists between December and April, and has been listed as one of the Seven Wonders of Sweden. The northern hemisphere's aurora borealis can be seen during the winter month in the location.

Documentaries that focus on this hotel can be seen from time to time on the Discovery Channel and National Geographic. The hotel appeared in a sketch about Sweden in one of the shows of the Eurovision Song Contest 2013, courtesy of Lynda Woodruff. The Icehotel has guests from many countries. There are many charter flights to the nearby Kiruna Airport, directly from London.

06. Read the sentences below and choose the one which is incorrect according to your knowledge of English language.
- Most students who don't do well in tests and fail their academic year tend to drop out of college in the end.
  - I was in the middle of a Math test when suddenly I realised my calculator had given out. Thank God I had a spare one!
  - Mother: John, please! Just one more spoon of soup. You're much too weak, dear. You need to eat.
Son: Ok, mom - I give in. You'll never let me go if I don't do it, will you?
  - Don't cry, dear. If you can't fall in with the best students in class, it is because they don't deserve you. They might be the best ones in terms of marks, nevertheless, they haven't got the best heart on earth like you do, sweetie.
  - I think Gina is not coming to my birthday party. We fell out last week and she doesn't seem to be willing to talk to me.
07. Read the dialogue and choose the alternative which best completes all the gaps.
- Mandy: Charles, do you have any ideas for the weekend?
Charles: Darling, whatever you say I'm in!
Mandy: It says here rock-covers _____ Storm is playing _____ at the pub round the corner on Saturday night. Would you like to go?
Charles: Yeah...why not? Providing there are tickets available and it is not a rip-off as usual.
Mandy: Oh, come on! Don't be such a stingy hubby, will you? What else? Sean Lock, that _____ who used to have his own _____ on Channel 4, is at Grimsby Auditorium on Saturday.
Charles: Wow! That guy really makes me laugh! Also, there is a good _____ at the Parkway Theatre on Sunday, and it is for free if you have 10 coupons from Tesco supermarket, which we do, darling!
Mandy: Oh, Charles! For free? You needn't tell me where we are going anymore!

  - I'm not sure I'll pass the test since there is too much information to take on from all the lessons and I didn't pay attention to many.
  - Here you are, sir. All you have to do is fill on the questionnaire and hand it in to the personnel department.

10. Read the dialogue below and choose the alternative which contains a phrasal verb mistake.

- Jane: Why are you taking so much luggage? It's only a weekend trip!
- Ava: I know, mom. But what if I meet someone who asks me into? I really want to enjoy this trip, mom. I need to get over Liam.
- Jane: Ok, darling. How long did it take you to get over Ethan? A day?
- Ava: Mom! You should respect my feelings! I'm suffering! I need to enjoy a new scenery, meet new people, breathe different air, mom.
- Jane: I see. Your father's thinking he's going to enjoy his little daughter's company over the weekend. I don't think he's going to see much of his little daughter, though.

Adventures in Couch Surfing

By Cody Kittle

<http://www.time.com/time/travel/article/0,31542,2045092,00.html> (adapted)

CouchSurfing.com is a travel-oriented social-networking site that _____ (1) in 2004 and has grown to more than 2.4 million members, including 25 in Antarctica. The nonprofit site, which aims to connect travelers, or "surfers," with hosts willing to offer a free place to stay, has some similarities to Facebook in that it includes user profiles, photos and friend requests. But it also incorporates a familiar eBay feature: feedback. After every CouchSurfing interaction, the people involved leave references about each other - positive, neutral or negative. As on eBay, a negative reference can be the end of someone's ability to participate. But of the more than 6 million experiences CouchSurfing has facilitated, 99.83% of them have been positive.

I first learned about the site last fall from my mom's friend, a middle-aged divorcée in Greenwich, Conn., who had been hosting travelers in her home to add a little excitement to life after her oldest son went to college. She recommended I use it for an upcoming trip to Europe. That's how I became one of the millions of surfers who search hosts' profiles and send requests to sleep on those people's couches or on their floor or in a spare bedroom. A search _____ (2) me to Gildas, a 32-year-old freelance writer in Paris who came with 56 positive references.

To outsiders like my parents, it may be hard to understand why Gildas would agree to have two strangers stay at her place, or why we are even trying to couch-surf when hostels are cheap and plentiful in this part of the world. It is because couch surfing _____ (3) just a means of accommodation; it is an entirely new way to travel. You are invited to see the world through local residents, not hotel concierges or guidebooks. While cultural enrichment and adventure are almost a CouchSurfing guarantee, comfort is not. Gildas's guest mattress is not quite a quarter of an inch thick, the shower is too complicated for me to figure out, and the apartment is an eighth-floor walk-up. But it's a tradeoff surfers like me are happy to make.

13. Which of the sentences from the text is in the passive voice?

- Couch Surfing has grown to more than 2.4 million members, including 25 in Antarctica.
- The nonprofit site has some similarities to Facebook in that it includes user profiles, photos and friend requests.

The growth of slums in the developing world's rapidly expanding cities is creating new opportunities for infectious disease to flourish and spread.

As Lee Riley read article after article about the deadly 2014 Ebola outbreak, his frustration mounted. "I _____ (01. see) all of these newspaper reports and even scientific reports talking about this unprecedented epidemic in West Africa," says Riley, a specialist in urban public health at the University of California, Berkeley, "and there _____ (02. not be) a single mention of the words 'slums' or 'informal settlements'."

Ebola _____ (03. fear) because of its high mortality and limited treatment options, but generally it _____ (04. be) limited to remote rural regions. The 2014 outbreak was different: flare-ups in cities such as Conakry in Guinea and Monrovia in Liberia _____ (05. reveal) the havoc that this lethal virus could wreak in urban environments. The dense and highly mobile populations provided greater opportunities for the infection to spread. And according to Mosoka Fallah, an epidemiologist who was working with Liberia's Ministry of Health at the front line of the Monrovia outbreak, urban slums bore the brunt. "Wherever there were big outbreaks, most people being infected were among the poor," he says. "Those that didn't have basic sanitation, who had the most distrust of institutions - they also had the most disease."

Developing nations _____ (06. experience) an astonishing boom in urbanization in the past few decades. The urban population of Kenya, for example, _____ (07. grow) at an average rate of 4.3% per year since 2010, as rural citizens have moved to cities in pursuit of new opportunities. "The range is between 3% and 6% in most of Africa," says Robert Breiman, an infectious-disease epidemiologist at Emory Global Health Institute in Atlanta, Georgia. Riley says that there has been a similar trend in Brazil, where 85% of the population now lives in cities. Many migrants initially _____ (08. make) their home in informal settlements at the city periphery. The United Nations Human Settlement Programme UN-Habitat estimates that 863 million people - one-third of the developing world's urbanites - _____ (09. live) in slums.
